• Aims:

- To illustrate on the concrete activities on GI planning and managing, that GI is more than an abstract term - it ensures the linkage between countries and is a base for human well-being providing several ecosystem services – it is part of our daily life;
- To share lessons learnt from project Life to Grasslands and other examples from participants that could be directly useful for other projects;
- To share the present status of LUIGI to show what kind of benefits, results are expected from the project and discuss about further collaboration with stakeholders;
- To provide feedback for presenters by workshop participants and exchange on good/bad practices regarding GI, ecological connectivity, branding, education, ...

Workshop is organized by the Institute of the Republic of Slovenia for Nature Conservation (Zavod RS za varstvo narave) and EUSALP Action Group 7 members.
